TOP 10 WAYS TO TELL IF YOUR HOME HAS AN ENERGY HOG:

10. Family wastes so much energy, you're on your energy company's Christmas card list.
9. Your air-conditioner usage has altered penguin migration patterns.
8. So many lights on, your home can be seen from outer space.
7. Fireplace flue is just like a 7-Eleven® store; it never closes.
6. Space under front door is wide enough to admit small pets.
5. Windows were last caulked during the Roosevelt administration.
4. Your family thinks insulation is something for diabetics.
3. Your idea of energy conservation is a Saturday afternoon nap.
2. Local history museum has called dibs on your refrigerator.
1. Monthly energy bill larger than U.S. deficit.

HOLD IT, BLOO-ED MUST HAVE BROUGHT THAT CAN FOR PAINTING THE TABLE.

BUT, HEY-- IF WE USE IT TO MAKE PATCHES OF COLOR AROUND THE ROOM, THEN STUFF SHOULD START TO STAND OUT. STUFF LIKE THE DOOR!

SO, GIMME!

SORRY MAC, BUT CLEARLY I'M HANDIER WITH A BRUSH.

WHY, JUST LOOK AT THAT YELLOW PAINT, GLORIOUS GOLDEN, GLOWING WITH LIGHT...

BEAUTIFULLY BRIGHT, WARM AND WONDERFUL...

...LIKE THE SUN ITSELF!

NO, BLOO, GIVE ME THE CONTROLS! WE'VE GOT TO TURN AWAY BEFORE WE BURN UP! YOU CAN'T FLY INTO THE SUN!

LISTEN, MAC, I'M THE CAPTAIN OF THIS SPACE SHIP...AND THIS FANTASY--AND I SAY WE CAN!

GIVE... ME... THE... BRUSH!

PAINT FLOWING... MIND WANDERING... WANDERING... WANDERING...

MAC, CAN YOU HEAR THAT ECHO IN MY HEAD?

GRUNT
SORRY, BUT YOU'RE GONNA HAVE TO TRUST ME! BECAUSE I'VE GOT IT ALL FIGURED OUT!

SEE THE CLOCK, MAC? IT'S 7 P.M.! SO, IT'LL BE NIGHT BY THE TIME THE SHIP REACHES THE SUN. SOOOO, NO SWEAT!

OH MAN, WE'RE...

TEAMING UP TO DEFEND ALL FREE WORLDS...

IF THEY DON'T KILL EACH OTHER FIRST!

OH, BUOY, have we got a wecky new show for you! Chert a course for crazy because THE MISAVENTURES OF FLAPJACK are coming to Cartoon Network this summer. Spend Thursday nights in the bizarre sea village of Stormelong Herbor with a kooky kid named Flapjack and his very best friends — a crusty pirate called Captain K'nuckles, and a wise-talking whale, Bubble.

Flapjack will do anything to earn the coveted title of "Adventurer," and with the help of his buddies he gets into all kinds of trouble trying to reach his dream. From cheating in the Best Beard Contest to selling the Sea of Teeth, no adventure is too derling for Flapjack because a MIS-adventure is better than no adventure at all!

Set your sights on Thursday nights and start an adventure of your own with Flapjack and his crew on Cartoon Network.

Last issue, I started talking about my favorite kind of stories in comic books, about friends with funny names who get into outrageous adventures. You've read about them in ED, EDD N EDDY, but these kinds of kids go 'wey back to the beginning of comics.

WE GOTTA HURRY...
COME ON BLUE BOYS--
MORE SPEED!

THOSE CRAZY KIDS - IN COMICS (PART TWO)

Comic books were an explosive new thing in the early 1940s, and comics about kids were a big part of that. THE BOY COMMANDOS weren't playing around, though, they were fighting a war. They fought the Nazis in World War Two, just four boys and their adult captain. Each boy represented a different country (France, England, the Netherlands, and the U.S.) and they had names to match (Andre, Alfie, Jen, and Brooklyn). The stories were serious, but they couldn't help but be a little over the top.

Some sidekicks became superheroes themselves. One group, played mostly for laughs, was led by Ma Hunkel, a tough, funny superhero named the Red Tornado. (The funniest part was her costume, made out of an old saucan and long underwear.) Her daughter, Sissy, and Sissy's friend, Olinky, helped her out as the "Cyclone Twins." No adults at all were involved in the adventures of "Little Boy Blue and the Blue Boys." Their real names were Tommy, Tubby, and Toughy and they were all boys (until "Little Miss Redhead" joined). Like the Cyclone Twins, they mostly fought criminals in their hometowns.

Things quieted down in the 1950s and the kids of the comics stopped fighting gangsters, Nazis, and supervillains (for a while). SUGAR AND SPIKE #1 arrived in 1956 with probably the youngest kid geng ever. Sugar and Spike were babies and talked baby talk — they could understand each other, but no one could understand THEM. At first, the stories took place in the babies' houses and backyards, but they got more outrageous as the years went on. A baby genius named "Bernie the Brein" helped with the outrageous stuff.

The superheroes started to come back in 1958. THE LEGION OF SUPER-HEROES was a bunch of teenagers in a club. However, the clubhouse was a rocket ship, their "neighborhood" was the future, and each member came from a different planet. Funny names? They had them — Shrinking Violet, Blok, and Matter Eater Lad. You can read about them today in THE LEGION OF SUPER-HEROES IN THE 31ST CENTURY.

The TEEN TITANS had a clubhouse, too, a "T" shaped headquarters on an island. The thing that made them special was that they were costumed sidekicks who were taking a break from the hero they usually worked with. The sidekicks of Batman, Wonder Woman, Flash, and Aquaman first did it for themselves in 1964.

CODENAME: KIDS NEXT DOOR is about a kids club, with a bit of James Bond and Mission IMPOSSIBLE mixed in. They have a high-tech clubhouse in a tree and their funny names are Numbuh One, Numbuh Two, etc. They've been in CARTOON NETWORK ACTION PACK and other comics for only about five years.

Which brings us back to ED, EDD N EDDY in CARTOON NETWORK BLOCK PARTY, three kids who never have enough jawbreakers and never learn to stay out of trouble. Kids love comic books and comic books have always had stories about kids. (Thanks to Wikkipedia, the Overstreet Price Guide, and Don Merkstein's Toonopedia for being useful research sources.) You can add your own bit to comic book history by sending a letter or drawing to Johnny DC!
